

JESUIT VOLUNTEER CORPS

The background of the entire page is a photograph of a woman in silhouette, seen from the side, looking out over a vast, hazy landscape at sunset. The sky is filled with soft, golden light and scattered clouds. The woman's hair is tied back, and she is wearing a dark top. The landscape below is a mix of green and brown tones, suggesting a rural or mountainous area. A dark red horizontal band is overlaid on the right side of the image, containing the text.

2015/16 ANNUAL REPORT

JVC is an opportunity to commit to the dignity and well-being of others and let faith ignite in action.

Dear Friends of the Jesuit Volunteer Corps,

Thank you. At first glance these words do not seem like nearly enough to express my gratitude for the experience of the past year at JVC. A year which included a visit to the U.S. from Pope Francis; hundreds of emails and well-wishes from FJVs; a 10% increase in placed JVs; weeks on college campuses meeting inspiring campus partners; days and hours spent with our team in discussion and prayer on racial equity work; the partnership with 229 nonprofit agencies, schools, and ministries where JVs served; a board meeting at agency partner Homeboy Industries in LA; over 3,900 individual financial donors and 100 FJVs and many Jesuits donating time as support people and mentors to our JVs in the field, and so much more.

Gratitude is a key theme in Ignatian spirituality and a central movement of the Examen prayer which we regularly share with JVs. As I review this past year, I recall personal moments of transformation and grace — the face-to-face, heart-to-heart encounters with members of our community. Sitting on the beach of Lake Michigan this summer I listened to a JV recount her JVC story, just one story in the lexicon of thousands of JV stories woven together over the past six decades.

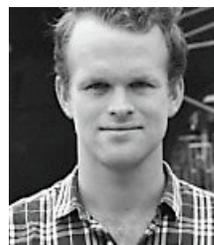

Kristen shared how, as a queer, black woman in a Catholic institution living and serving in St. Louis, she spent much of her year in JVC questioning where and how she could be her fullest self, within and on the margins of our church. She shared how this exploration and questioning — at the school where she served, with her community, and with the broader JVC community — ultimately led her to a deeper connection to Jesus as a radical community builder.

I sat on the beach listening to this narrative, surrounded by dozens of other JVs, awe-struck with her reflection, authenticity, and abundant capacity for hope and grace. Her story was one of pain, challenge, tumult, and ultimately revival; it was a story of brokenness, in ourselves and our institutions, and of a deep belief in the power of radical, unending love.

I have had the great fortune of listening to hundreds of current and former volunteers who have inspired me with their stories of transformation while offering vital service in communities across the globe. In a year marked by tremendous pain, including refugees forgotten by the world, senseless killings of black men and women on the streets of our cities, and an ever more individualistic and disconnected world, I give thanks for the entire community of JVC — a community which inspires so many. I give thanks for JVs who sit with and welcome the migrant, the tired, the poor, and the forgotten into their hearts and communities; for young people like Kristen who join our family each year seeking and offering love in the midst of heartbreak; and for this community which has welcomed me with open arms and hearts.

Join me in offering heartfelt gratitude. Put your hand over your heart and take a few deep breaths. Let an image or moment from your own connection to JVC pour over you. Breathe it in. Say thank you out loud. Experience grace and light together in this moment. Rooted in this gratitude, we resolve with God, the giver of all good gifts, to continue the good work God has begun in us — living and breathing a more just and hopeful JVC, igniting a more just and hopeful world.

In gratitude,

The Pope's visit to a JVC city

The call seemed at first like any other at my placement at the Campaign for the Fair Sentencing of Youth. I had been prepared to take down names, dates of conviction, Department of Corrections ID numbers, and legal representation notes.

"This is Mike, Senator Murray's Chief of Staff. I'd love to chat if you have a couple minutes."

Senator Murray had read The Washington Post piece on the Washington, D.C. JV community. After learning I was a Washington state native, she decided to extend to me her one guest ticket during Pope Francis' historic address to Congress.

I was struck by Pope Francis' aura of simplicity and humility. I was glad I had been asked to leave my phone behind; I was fully invested in what he was saying, not distracted by a desire to take a photo or live-tweet his remarks. I could simply bear witness as an American Catholic to an historic moment.

Pope Francis spoke to the people of the United States by turns gentle and forceful, diplomatic and passionate. He forcefully declared that, "[The Golden Rule] has led me, from the beginning of my ministry, to advocate at different levels for the global abolition of the death penalty."

As outreach coordinator, my primary role had been responding to letters and phone calls of those serving juvenile life without parole sentences and their families. I found myself thinking of the names and faces of those incarcerated individuals with whom I have been privileged to correspond.

Pope Francis then said, "Every human person is endowed with an inalienable dignity, and society can only benefit from the rehabilitation of those convicted of crimes... I also offer encouragement to all those who are convinced that a just and necessary punishment must never exclude the dimension of hope and the goal of rehabilitation." I felt as if Pope Francis was speaking directly to me. I felt affirmed, convinced of the value of the Campaign for the Fair Sentencing of Youth's work.

JVs are working for justice with and for individuals who are disenfranchised, marginalized or vulnerable, such as children with limited educational opportunities, people who are homeless, patients diagnosed with AIDS, survivors of domestic abuse, low-wage earners, former gang members, refugees and the elderly.

A person is walking away from the camera down a sunlit street. The scene is bathed in a warm, golden light, likely from a low sun, creating long shadows and a hazy atmosphere. In the background, there are palm trees and buildings. The text "DARE TO CHANGE" is overlaid in a white, handwritten-style font across the middle of the image.
